Note: If Hebrews is discussing the Body of Christ, which according to Ephesians 3:3-5 was a mystery not made known in other ages to other generations, but was revealed to Paul, then how is it that the subject matter of Hebrews is distinctly prophetic? The subject matter of Hebrews pulls from and incorporates prophecy directly, speaking directly of Israel and alluding to eschatology pertaining to them. The essence of prophecy is that something was spoken and revealed—this is the antithesis of mystery which demands that something was concealed.
